From Tuesday, September 28, to Saturday October 2, 1756.

From the Camp at Kolin, September 14, 1756.

THE Regiments encamped here ſince the 1ſt of Auguſt, having been employed in perfecting themſelves in the great Movements; On the 1ſt Inſtant, in the Afternoon, his Excellency Marſhal Count Broun, General in Chief, had the Army drawn out in Order of Battle in three Lines; and after riding through them with all the General Officers, his Excellency placed himſelf on a riſing Ground, from whence he could ſee the Exerciſes and Evolutions, which were performed on the Signal given by a Cannon, and executed with admirable Order and Quickneſs.

On the 2d, a great Number of Horſes for remounting the Cavalry arrived at the Camp, and a greater Number is expected, his Excellency the Commander in Chief having ſent the Lieutenant Colonel of the Regiment of Emanuel Kolowrath's Dragoons, M. de Koki, to receive them at Tomethau.

The 3d, on the Advices which his Excellency received, of the Entry of a conſiderable Body of Pruſſians into Saxony, Major General Count Wied was detached with 3000 Grenadiers, Horſe and Foot, 6 Pieces of Cannon, and a Detachment of Huſſars; but the Deſtination of this Corps is not known.

On the 4th, Major General Count Rudolph Palfi arrived at the Camp of Pardubiz, with the Huſſar Regiments of Baranyai and Feſtitits.

On the 5th, Lieutenant General Count Radicati, and Major General Prince Lowenſtein, entered the Camp with four Regiments of Horſe, which had hitherto encamped at Teutſchbrod.

On the 6th, Major General Baron Kroſtendorf arrived here from Styria, as alſo General Count Quaſco, who is appointed Quarter Maſter-General of the Army.

On the 7th, Prince Lowenſtein was ſent from hence with one Thouſand Horſe, compoſed of Carbineers and other Detachments drawn from the ſeveral Regiments, having under his Orders Baron Kolbe, Colonel of his Royal Highneſs the Arch Duke Ferdinand's Regiment. The Army has received Orders to hold itſelf in Readineſs to march.

On the 8th, his Excellency the Commander in Chief, Marſhal Broun, ordered the two Regiments of Lewis Wolffenbuttel, and Coloredo, out of the Camp, that he might ſee them go thro' their Exerciſe and Firing; which they performed with a ſurpriſing Exactneſs and Quickneſs, to his Excellency's entire Satisfaction.

On the 9th, General Baron de Wolferſdorff was detached from the Camp towards the Frontiers of Saxony, with three Regiments of Foot, Hilburgſhauſen, Waldeck, and Keil, and two Regiments of Dragoons, Archduke Joſeph and Lichtenſtein, and 12 Pieces of Cannon.

On the 10th and 11th, the two Regiments of Serbelloni and Pretlach, both Cuiraſſiers, arrived at the Camp, in very good Order, from the furthermoſt Parts of Hungary; as did alſo a Train of Artillery of 85 Pieces of Cannon of different Sizes, drawn out of the Arſenal at Vienna.

The

[Price Four-Pence.]

The whole Army is in Readineſs to march, and the Commander in Chief is gone before, in order to make all the neceſſary Diſpoſitions at Prague, where he ſaw the Regiment of Harrach coming in from Carinthia, with a Company of Grenadiers belonging to the firſt Battalion of the Regiment of Carlſtadt. All theſe Troops are on full March to join the Army forthwith. Our Advices from Saxony mention, that the Saxon Troops remain ſtill in the Camp at Pirna, waiting to ſee what will be the Conſequence of the Pruſſian Troops entering Saxony.

Dreſden, Sept. 19. His Poliſh Majeſty continues with the two Princes in the Camp; and her Majeſty, the Electoral Prince and Princeſs, and the reſt of the Royal Family, are here in good Health. His Pruſſian Majeſty's Headquarters are ſtill at Seidlitz; his Army incamping from thence up to the Frontiers of Bohemia. The Situation of the Saxon Camp, which makes it almoſt impregnable, is as follows, viz. The Plain between Pirna and Koenigſtein, where the Saxon Camp is pitched, is a continued Rock, with a Declivity down to the Elbe on one Side, and into a Valley on the other. This Declivity ends on one Side of Koenigſtein, from whence begins a thick Foreſt, in which the Saxons have cut down Trees, and barricaded themſelves. On this Side of Pirna is a narrow Paſſage, where, as well as in the Town itſelf, they have made Intrenchments, and have raiſed, in and about their Camp, near 60 Redoubts, which are provided with a great Number of Cannon. Though the Saxon Camp is ſo well ſituated, it is ſaid they are in Want of Water, Proviſions, and Forage. A Skirmiſh happened on Monday laſt, the 13th Inſtant, between a Party of Auſtrian Huſſars, ſupported by a Battalion of Grenadiers (that were to eſcort ſeveral Waggons loaded with Proviſions from Bohemia, for the Saxon Camp) and a Detachment of Pruſſian Huſſars. The latter attacked the Auſtrians, put them to the Rout, and made ſixteen Priſoners. Eight Waggons, however, attained the Camp, but the reſt fell into the Hands of the Pruſſians. On the 17th Inſtant another Skirmiſh happened, of which the Particulars are not yet known. The Saxon Army has been obliged to ſwear Allegiance three Times to their Sovereign, ſince their Incampment, notwithſtanding which they deſert in Numbers. The Magazines here are filled with an immenſe Quantity of Proviſion and Forage for the Pruſſian Army. Beſides the Bread the Bakers in this City are ordered to make from the Flower delivered to them, the Pruſſians have erected thirty Ovens near the Elbe, in which they bake Day and Night.

Rome, Sept. 4. By the Death of Cardinal Valenti, ſeveral principal Employments, as Secretary of State, Camarlingo or Treaſurer, are become vacant. His Corpſe was interred in the Cathedral Church of Viterbo. On the 1ſt Inſtant, M. Valenti, with the Family of the late Cardinal his Uncle, returned to this City from Viterbo. The ſame Day the Pope appointed Cardinal Archinto, Governor of Rome, to be Secretary of State, and Vice Chancellor of the See of Rome. Cardinal Colonna, who was Pro-Maggiordomo, to be Camarlingo or Treaſurer, M. Monti Caprara to be Governor of Rome, in the room of Cardinal Archinto, and M. Rome, Sept. 11. Two of the Pope's Frigates are fitting out at Civita Vecchia, to cruize on the Barbary Corſairs, inſtead of the Gallies, which, on Account of the Seaſon of the year, are ordered to be diſarmed. The Frigates, it is ſaid, are to ſail immediately to Toulon, to provide themſelves with neceſſary Anchors.

Vienna, Sept. 11. On Sunday laſt Eighty-five Pieces of Cannon were taken from the Arſenal in this City, and ſent to the Camp near Kolin in Bohemia. And her Imperial Majeſty has ordered General Count Eſterhaſi, and Lieutenant Field Marſhal Thierheim, to repair forthwith to the ſaid Camp. The Emperor, who has been for ſome Days paſt at Holitſch, returned from thence to Schonbrun laſt Wedneſday Evening; and Yeſterday Morning their Imperial Majeſties, accompanied by the young Archdukes and Archdutcheſſes, arrived here with a numerous Retinue.
